

SHAN-Beteiligungsgesellschaft m.b.H.

Abstract

The use of a derivative of an allergenic protein is disclosed whereby the derivative has a reduced allergenic activity compared with the allergenic protein from which it is derived for the preparation of a medicament for the treatment or prevention of an allergic disorder, wherein the medicament is administered to a patient two to six times with the proviso that the time intervals between the administrations are at least 14 days and the medicament induces blocking antibodies.

10026931.12701